P. A. Canfield Dies in Florida

Widely Known Business Man Had Been Critically Ill for Some Time at Lake Worth, Fla. Winter Home—Long Active in Religious, Social and Industrial Life of City.

Palmer A. Canfield, president of the Canfield Supply Company on the Strand, and widely known business man, died early this morning at his winter home at Lake Worth, Fla., after a lengthy illness. Mr. Canfield had been in failing health for some time and had gone south thinking that a change in climate would prove of benefit to his health. There were few men in Kingston who were more widely and favorably known than he.

Mr. Canfield was born in this city on June 10, 1856, and had been a life-long resident of Kingston and he had always taken an active interest in the religious, social and industrial life of the city.

Mr. Canfield's body will be brought to Kingston Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence, No. 72 Montecito street, with interment in Montecito cemetery.

The Canfield Supply Company was founded in 1850 by the late P. A. Canfield, father of Palmer A. Canfield, and has gradually grown and expanded until it was one of the largest plumbing supply houses in the Hudson river valley. The firm also deals largely in farming implements and machinery. Mr. Canfield retained active management of the company until 1907.

Mr. Canfield is survived by his wife, Celia C. D. Canfield; one daughter, Clara, wife of Edwin Angell of North Chatham; two sons, Mrs. Milton G. Holmes and Miss Esther M. Canfield, both of this city; and four brothers, Stephen G. and Abram L. Canfield, both of New York city; James E. Canfield of Troy, N. Y., and William H. V. Canfield of Kingston.

A life-long Republican, Mr. Canfield had always taken an active interest in the political life of the city and for many years had been active on the plumbing board and later served on the water board of which he was president until he resigned some time ago, owing to ill health. During his administration as president of the water board a number of important improvements were made to the city's water system. The dam at Cooper's Lake was raised to increase the capacity of the reservoirs and to avoid all danger of a water famine during the dry season here. The filtration plant also was modernized and brought up to date until today the city has one of the finest water systems of any city of its size in the state. It was also during Mr. Canfield's administration that an electric pump was installed to increase the water pressure on the high points of the city.

Mr. Canfield at one time was a candidate for mayor of the city on the Republican ticket but was defeated by the late William D. Brinley.

Realizing that the more residents who owned their own homes would tend to make Kingston a better city to live in, Mr. Canfield became a charter member of the Home-Loans Association which was organized in 1880, and he had served as director ever since and was the association's active treasurer for many years.

Mr. Canfield was also active for many years in the financial circles of the city and was president of the Roundout National Bank for many years.

He was for many years an active member of the Roundout Presbyterian church and served as president of the board of trustees of the church for several years.

Formerly Mr. Canfield was a Mason and a member of Roundout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M. He was raised to the degree of Master Mason in that lodge in 1889 and served as Master of the lodge for four years, from 1894 to 1897. He also had the distinction of having served as a district deputy for this Masonic district. For nearly thirty years he served the lodge as its treasurer, finally resigning the position owing to ill health when the lodge elected him treasurer emeritus.

During the many years that Mr. Canfield was a resident of Kingston he was active in many lines of endeavor in all of which he made a success. Last year his health, which had always been of the best, began to fail. That fact led him to consider his resignation to Mayor Morris Block as a member of the board of water commissioners. It also led him to refuse reelection as treasurer of Roundout Lodge of Masons at the annual meeting held in December.

Several years ago Mr. Canfield purchased a winter home at Fort Worth, Florida, where he had been spending the winter months. He and his wife left Kingston the latter part of 1925, and at that time he was in failing health but believed that he would improve with a change in climate, but found his condition gradually grew worse.

In the death of Mr. Canfield the city has lost one of its most administrative and active citizens, and a man who held the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence, No. 72 Montecito street, with interment in Montecito cemetery.

Youth Kills Self And Sweetheart

New York, March 31.—Inside a speeding taxicab, a youth shot and killed a girl, apparently his sweetheart, early today, and then turned his gun on himself, dying shortly afterwards.

The cause of the tragedy was unrevealed although a series of notes were found on the dead youth which indicated he had carefully planned the murder and suicide.

The girl is believed to be Christine Spagon, in her early twenties, and the youth, Peter Patrissi, 25, a mechanic. These names were mentioned in the letters found on the youth.

First efforts of police to identify them resulted in failure. The police were unable to learn which one was shot first, although they believe the man killed the young woman and then shot himself.

A note written within the past twenty-four hours read:

"I'm standing on the threshold of eternity at last.
"As reckless of the future as I have been of the past."
(Signed) Peter."

Another missive dated March 20, unsigned, said:

"Tragic day for us, Christine and me. I bought a spring coat and wrist watch for her yesterday."

Within a memorandum book in the dead man's pocket was this scribbled message:

"Christine, you are the breakage of my home and my success."
(Signed) Peter."

Edward J. Strickler, chauffeur of the taxicab, said he picked up the pair at Seventy-second street and Columbus avenue after they had stepped from another taxi and were arguing excitedly.

The girl directed Strickler to drive through Central Park. After riding for half an hour, Strickler said, the girl tapped on the glass and told him to drive to a house on East Twenty-second street.

As Strickler was crossing this street at Third avenue he heard two shots from inside the cab. Yanking his head around he saw the girl slumped down on the seat of the cab with the man's head resting on her shoulder.

Strickler drove to a police station where detectives took the lifeless body of the girl from the cab and administered first aid to the youth who was still breathing. He died before an ambulance arrived.

The dead girl wore a sealskin coat, velvet slippers, red hat, and flesh-colored stockings.

Seek New Trial For Chapman

Reprieve Expected to be Asked Today by Bandit's Attorney—"Mystery Witness" Said to be Respectable Citizen.

Hartford, Conn., March 31.—With less than six days between him and the gallows, Gerald Chapman, convicted as the murderer of Patrolman James Skelly of New Britain, today rested his desperate struggle to regain among the living upon the bowed shoulders of a white-bearded, seventy-year-old man, the so-called "mystery witness," who wants to give testimony in the bandit's favor.

Chapman's attorney, Frederick J. Groehl, of New York, bearing with him a lengthy affidavit signed by the new witness, is expected today to ask Governor John H. Trumbull for a fourth reprieve. The affidavit was signed late last night after prison officials had refused the witness admission to the prison for the purpose of identifying Chapman.

Groehl said the new witness, who had been only discovered last Sunday, was a highly respectable citizen who had lived in a small Connecticut town for thirty-five years.

States Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn asserted that little was to be expected from the new appeal. Alcorn also bombed another Chapman hope by declaring that Charles William Gregory, another missing witness, had been deported to Canada as a "dankous and insane person," and was an ex-convict and a member of one of Chapman's gangs.

As there will be no court sessions Good Friday, it was expected here today that Attorney Charles W. Murphy, of Danbury, representing Chapman, would apply late this afternoon to Superior Court Judge L. F. Walden Martin for a new trial or a reprieve.

At the prison, the new execution chamber was closed to all visitors today, and the prison authorities were completing the final arrangements for hanging Chapman, a few minutes after midnight next Monday night, the morning of April 4.

The last and forty-eighth hanging at the prison was that of Emil Schattner October 24, 1922.

On the death of Mr. Canfield the city has lost one of its most administrative and active citizens, and a man who held the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

Fight on Greene Becomes Intense

Canal Operators' Association Joins Buffalo Senator in Effort to Oust Commissioner of Public Works on Account of His Attitude Toward Barge Canal.

Albany, March 31.—The drive to oust Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene as commissioner of public works, launched in the Legislature by Senator Gibbs, Buffalo Republican, is daily becoming more intense.

From the floor of the upper house and in statement, Senator Gibbs has charged Col. Greene with being behind a movement to "scrap" the barge canal.

The fight on Greene started when he sent his report to the law makers urging that the canal be turned over to the Federal government to be used in connection with the proposed all-American ship canal from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic seaboard.

The Canal Operators' Association has joined with Senator Gibbs in his war on Col. Greene. In addition to attacking Col. Greene, the Canal Operators have severely condemned Governor Al Smith for supporting the Greene report urging that the canal be turned over to the Federal government.

"Colonel Greene has broken faith with the people of this state because when he took office he promised to maintain the canal in an efficient manner," Senator Gibbs charged. "He went to Sylvan Beach, one of the most dangerous places on the canal, blew it up and then left it in that condition."

Early in the present session, according to Senator Gibbs, Colonel Greene requested an appropriation of $200,000 to put the canal at Sylvan Beach in shape. Subsequently he told the finance committee that the money was not needed. This led to another attack by Senator Gibbs.

Thus far Colonel Greene has refused to answer either Senator Gibbs or the Canal Operators' Association. "I guess the public knows what are behind these charges," was all Colonel Greene would say.

REPUBLICANS REJECT COUNTY CONSOLIDATION

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—Republican leaders of the Legislature today were on record as having definitely rejected Governor Smith's recommendation for an investigation of county governments with a view of consolidating many of the smaller counties.

The judiciary committee, by a vote of eight to four, killed the Roseman bill which would have carried out the governor's suggestion for county consolidation.

A consolidation of county governments would mean a loss of seats for the Republicans in the assembly.

BURGEVIN FLOWER DISPLAY ATTRACTS ATTENTION

The annual Easter floral display at the floral shop of Valentin Burgevin, Inc., Main and Fair streets, is attracting merited attention and commendation because of its beauty from lovers of flowers. Hundreds of potted plants and many more cut flowers and shrubs for Easter offerings are on show. The variegated colorings making a pretty picture by reason of their artistic arrangement. They embrace Easter lilies, Hyacinths, tulips, azaleas, geraniums, roses, carnations, chrysanthemums, and other varieties.

"CLEAN BOOKS BILL" WILL AGAIN BE DEFEATED

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—The so-called clean books bill will not be passed by the legislature, Republican leaders said today. This will mark the fourth year such a measure has been defeated.

This year's bill, sponsored by Senator Kennedy (D), New York, and Assemblyman Garman (R), Westchester, was much more drastic than previous measures. Its opponents declared it would bring about a censorship on the press.

EXPLOSION IN AMMUNITION FACTORY FATAL TO NINE

Cartagena, Spain, March 31.—Nine persons were killed and six others probably fatally injured in an explosion in an ammunition factory today.

The explosion was caused, it is believed, by an unextinguished cigarette coming in contact with explosive.

Republicans Won at Coshkili. The results at the charter election at Coshkili on Tuesday voted 242 to 107 to extend $24,000 for having Railroad Avenue and Depot street.

Trolley Road Will Pay Half Cost of Street Repair

Board of Public Works Accepts Company's Proposal to Bear One-Half of Expense of Tearing Up Tracks and Relaying Roadway Along Streets Abandoned by Colonial Division.

General Manager C. Burton Tebow, of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad, appeared before the board of public works Tuesday evening and submitted a proposition that the city do the work of tearing up the tracks and relaying the roadway along the streets abandoned by the Colonial Division of the trolley road, and that the trolley company would pay half of the cost of the work.

The proposition was accepted and Corporation Counsel James Jenkins was directed by the board to draw up an agreement which will be signed by the city and trolley road.

Estimated Cost $32,000.

The estimated cost of removing the tracks and relaying the streets through which the tracks run is $32,000, of which the trolley road has agreed to pay half the cost, or $16,000.

To show its good faith the trolley road agreed to give the city a note for $7,500, which is half of the estimated cost of taking up the tracks and relaying the roadway in Washington avenue, Clinton avenue and Cedar street, which work will be done first by the city.

The note will be dated April 1 and will be issued for a period of six months.

Commissioner Greenwell Ill.

The Rev. R. A. Greenwell, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, and a member of the board of public works, was unable to attend Tuesday's meeting as he had been suddenly taken ill with the grip that day and was confined to his bed. Dr. George F. Chandler, another member of the board, was also absent as he had been called to New York city that day. The three other members of the board, however, were present.

Mayor Morris Block presided, with Commissioners Fessenden and Raftery attending.

Property Owner Wants Grade.

Clarence Robertson of No. 131 Clifton avenue was present at the meeting and stated he desired to erect a house on Shufeldt street and asked to have the grade established so that there would be no delay in starting construction work. The city engineer was directed to furnish Mr. Robertson with the grade.

Board Discusses Signs.

A number of applications were received asking permission to erect street signs. Many of the applications were referred to Superintendent Van Keuren with power. The matter of allowing the installation of wooden signs, however, was left open until the April meeting when the full board would be present.

Mrs. Elizabeth Deltz asked permission to install a wooden sign at 518 Broadway; Benjamin W. Johnston to erect electric sign in front of his drug store on the Strand; Marion Winne and Rose Hasbrouck to erect wooden sign at 306 Wall street; Kingston Gas & Electric Company to erect a sign at 5 Field Court; Harder's electrical store at 53 North Front street, an electric sign; Fred Illert, 53 Crown street, electric sign; electric sign at 582 Broadway; sign at 72 North Front street; electric signs at Lyons's restaurant, Edward Wortman's store; Candyland; New York Photos; and the Blue Stone Inn which were applied for by Al King of 64 Pearl street.

No More Curb Pumps.

The board recently adopted a ruling that it would not permit the installation of any more gasoline pumps at the curb. That fact was brought out when Teofil Frankowski asked permission to install a curb pump at 455 Delaware avenue. The application was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren who will notify the applicant that the board will only allow installation of pumps at drive-in stations or placed close to the building with an arm extending over the sidewalk.

Reject Kittle Application.

Ray Kittle made application for permission to erect a repair garage at 44-46 St. James street. It was stated that this was in a residential section and that Mr. Kittle intended having a repair shop. The application was rejected on the ground that the board had no authority to grant permission under the provisions of the zoning law.

Place Compensation Insurance. Compensation were read from the insurance plan of G. L. McIntire & Son asking that it be allowed to carry the compensation insurance for street employees which expires in April. A similar communication was read from the firm of Fessenden & Van Buren. They were filed. Later in the meeting the board placed the insurance with the firm of Brinley & Carr.

Street Light Order.

The action of the street committee in ordering a car of Kevork for use in constructing streets was approved by the board.

Notes for $9,000. A note for $9,000 on the asphalt plant was renewed by the board for another year.

Regents Request Celebration Here

Observance of State's Adoption of First Constitution, Election of First Governor and Organization of State Government Recommended to Legislature.

A resolution requesting the legislature to provide funds to carry out the program suggested by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York for the observance of the sesquicentennial of New York state's part in the American Revolution has been adopted by the Regents.

Included in the suggested program are the following:

1. In 1926 an observance of New York's adoption of the Declaration of Independence at White Plains, and the military engagements about New York city.

2. In 1927 an observance of New York's adoption of the first constitution at Kingston, the election of the first governor, the organization of the first state government, and the military engagements connected with the decisive Burgoyne campaign.

3. The publication by the state of (1) A Handbook of New York in the Revolution, (2) A Memorial History of New York, (3) A History of the Sesquicentennial.

4. The erection of markers on historic sites and buildings over the state, partly at local and partly at state expense.

Bills appropriating $150,000 to carry out that part of the program which falls within the fiscal year 1926-27 have been introduced in the legislature.

Recently proposals have been made for the purchase and rehabilitation of battlefields associated with the Burgoyne campaign, and for the erection of temporary replicas of New York buildings at Philadelphia in connection with the sesquicentennial to be held there. The Regents regard both these projects as most worthy and deserving, but suggest that the decision with reference to them should not affect the appropriation for the historical program within the state.

SINGER KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

Syracuse, N. Y., March 31.—Thomas Spencer, baritone singer, and former headliner in the "Follies," was instantly killed early today when his automobile crashed into a telegraph pole on the East Canillus Hill, six miles west of Syracuse.

The contract was awarded Mr. Everett as he was lowest bidder.

Vera Sails for England, Broke

Countess of Cathcart Sails For Her Home in England After Her Play "Ashes of Love" Collapsed, Costing Her $20,000.

New York, March 31.—Vera, the Countess of Cathcart, sails for her home in England today—"broke."

Her play, "Ashes of Love," has collapsed and she has lost $20,000 on the venture; she is a little lonesome for dear old London and her two kiddies; she is rather worried over the illness of her fiancé, Ralph Neale, British playwright and actor and, besides, she wants to recoup her financial losses by writing for the English newspapers on "My experiences in America."

She isn't going away bitter as a result of her experiences in the United States—far from it. She bestowed warm praise on American women, calling them brave and intelligent, and she lauded the American press for the stand it took when the immigration authorities at Ellis Island sought to bar her from the country on grounds of "moral turpitude."

"I enjoyed my adventures," she smiled. "At least I kept my sense of humor. I don't know what I would have done without it. I was blamed for so many things I didn't do."

She said her play, "Ashes of Love," failed, not because it was a poor play, but because of bad publicity. It was poor policy to announce, when the play opened in Washington, that it was the story of her life, when it wasn't, she asserted.

Also, the publicity she got when Earl Carroll gave his "Win Bathub" party didn't do her any good—in fact, "it hurt." And besides, she wasn't at the party, she said.

After the play was put on by Carroll in Washington for a week and met with disapproval, the Countess thought it would go in New York, so she bought it back from Carroll for $20,000 and presented it to Broadway herself. It failed, dimly, and she lost all her money.

The Countess is going to try again to write a play America will like. She has written three novels. One of these novels, "The Woman Tempted," has as its leading character a woman illustrative of "moral turpitude."

"I'm not going to give up," she said, with a flash of determination in her eyes as she prepared to sail today. "I've learned a lot through the failure of my play. I think I know what the people want now."

"And—" she added, with a smile, "I think the immigration men will pass me O. K. next time—at least my lawyer tells me they will."

Malt Tonic Not Mellow Beer

Will Be Manufactured by Two Famous Breweries—Reporters Made a Mistake and Called It Beer.

Washington, March 31.—Highly imaginative stories broadcast from Washington that the Federal government has consented to the manufacture and sale in drug stores of "2.75 per cent beer" were characterized by prohibition officials today as "apparently one of the best engineered press agent stunts worked on newspapers for a long time."

The stories were sent out by a news service, and have resulted in numerous protests being voiced by the Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations, which apparently took them seriously.

The basis for the stories was furnished by the Treasury Department issuing permits to two famous breweries, the Anheuser-Busch and the Pabst, to manufacture and sell to drug stores a malt medicinal tonic containing 2.75 per cent alcohol.

The new malt tonic is a thick, slurry concoction which is very dark, and has a bitter, medicinal taste. It has about the same consistency as molasses, and can be taken with a spoon as well as drunk from a glass.

Dr. J. M. Doran, chief chemist of the prohibition bureau, described the concoction as "a heavy preparation of malted barley."

"It's no more beer," he said, "than any other medicinal preparation for debilitated people."

"The fact that the malt is to be manufactured by two famous breweries probably inspired an immediately superior to call it beer."

"For a person to obtain one ounce of alcohol by drinking this stuff, it would be necessary to consume thirty ounces of the preparation. You might as well talk of drinking a quart and a half of maple syrup."

"This 2.75 per cent beer tonic is the most grotesque piece of tonified crap I have seen since I began in the office," said Gen. Linthicum C. Andrews, "The International News Service today."

Browning's New Cinderella Burned

New York, March 31.—A shadow was cast today over the latest romance of Edward W. Browning, millionaire "Cinderella man," who attracted much attention several months ago when he adopted Mary Spas.

Frances Hooper, pretty and fifteen, whom Browning wants to marry, is writhing from burns today following the throwing of acid on her face while she slept by an unidentified person.

Frances lives with her mother, a trained nurse. Browning's new Cinderella girl awoke screaming but saw nobody.

Doctors cannot say yet whether the blonde Frances will have her beauty disfigured when the bandages are removed.

Browning had known the girl only a few weeks but has seen her almost every day since then. The wealthy realtor intends to announce their engagement when she is sixteen in June, friends said.

Since the strange acid attack, Browning has been a constant visitor at the home of Frances, assuring her that beauty or no beauty, it will make no difference.

Police believe the acid-throwing was the result of jealousy by a love-stricken youth over Browning's devotion to Frances.

Mary Spas is reported to be due in New York today from Denver, Colo., because of the death of her sister, who was buried here last week.

Browning adopted Mary, believing her to be sixteen, but the adoption was annulled when it was discovered Mary was twenty-one.

MEMBER OF POSSE KILLS BANDIT SUSPECT.

Condersport, Pa., March 31.—One bandit suspect was dead and a search was being conducted by a posse of citizens in the dense forests of Potter county today for two accomplices, believed to have terrorized small hamlets in this vicinity for the last two weeks.

Harry Cornelius, a member of the posse organized in Coleburg and Seven Bridges, the towns suffering most from the bandit gang's activities, killed the suspect, whose identity has not been established, when the latter raised his gun to fire as the posse approached.

The slain man's companion fled into the forest, pursued by the posse, when the shooting started. Posse members claim they found much of the loot taken in recent Coleburg and Seven Bridges robberies concealed in the suspect's forest rendezvous.

Cornelius surrendered to the Potter county sheriff, who is investigating the shooting. The bandit suspect's body was removed to Condersport, where an attempt will be made to identify it.

Anderson Raps State Dry League

Pomeroy, Ohio, March 31.—The Anti-Saloon League has lost its grip and the dry cause is on the decline in New York, "because the management of the league double-crossed the Republican dry leadership," Anderson charged in his letter "The League, under its present management, defeated Colonel Roosevelt, prevented the passage of the state enforcement bills a year ago, re-elected Governor Smith and is responsible for most of the trouble in which the Republican party itself finds itself today."

Anderson charges that the Anti-Saloon League owes him $48,000. He said he would like to lay his claims before an "international court of prohibition mortality" composed of representatives of the denominational bodies which make up the Anti-Saloon League.

"If the hearing is held the public is in for some surprises," Anderson wrote in his letter. "If the League management is afraid to have its dealing exposed to the light, the public can draw its own conclusions."

Arthur J. Davis succeeded Anderson as superintendent of the league. Speaker McGinnis, Republican leader of the assembly, today said he believed the Jenks dry enforcement bill would be defeated in the house and that the Katie referendum would be passed.

"Sentiment for the referendum appears to be on the gain in the assembly, while sentiment for the prohibition enforcement bill appears to be on the wane," McGinnis said.

Five Dead in Texas Storm

More Than Thirty Injured and Property Damage Estimated at a Million—Storm Moves Toward The Atlantic.

New Orleans, La., March 31.—Leaving five dead, more than 30 injured and property damage of probably $1,000,000 in its wake today, the violent wind, hail and rain storm which broke over Southwestern Texas, swept across Louisiana and Mississippi on its way toward the Atlantic coast. At many points the blow reached cyclonic proportions. Roofs were blown off and trees uprooted in many localities. Three persons were injured at Lake Charles and one at Norwood, La. Two deaths were reported from the oil fields at Liberty, Texas, one from Crosby and one from Beaumont. Twenty-five persons were injured at Beaumont, scores of derricks were demolished in the oil fields. One victim of the storm from St. Francisville died in a Baton Rouge hospital.

Party Disregarded In English Trial

Washington, March 31.—Party lines were dropped today as the house began its second and what was expected to be last day in considering the impeachment of U. S. District Judge George W. English. East St. Louis, Ill., accused of being the leader of a bankruptcy ring using profane and indecent language on the bench and other misdeeds.

Democrats joined with Republicans in urging impeachment while a similar alignment defended English on the ground he had done nothing criminally wrong and was guilty only of mistakes and "using language the rough and ready people in that district could understand."

Demand for Impeachment. Impeachment of Federal Judge English was demanded today in the house. "For the sake of the whole federal judiciary."

In a caustic arraignment of English, Representative Hawes (D) Missour, painted him as a "drunkard, a man whose language resembled that of the bar room."

Moonshine Gang Kills Member

Ward Murder in Ohio Solved by Cincinnati—Victim Not Invited to Puke Birthday Party So Opponents Would Be Open to Kill Him.

Pomeroy, Ohio, March 31.—With the slaying of James McCumber, victim of a "murder to order" moonshine gang, solved by the confessions of John "Shorty" Bryant, negro, John Hedrick and Richard Rhodes, authorities believed today that Pomeroy Bend's "Mount of Horror" would soon have wrested from it the secret of the weird murders stretching unsolved far back into the past.

The grand jury was expected to return indictments against the men named in the McCumber shooting and question the trio concerning four other mysterious deaths.

Hedrick was accused of another murder by "King Tim" O'Brien, former czar of moonshiners.

McCumber deserted his white wife and went to live with Jerry Nuber and his wife, a negro family, the confession related. A white woman also made her home with the Nubers. Bryant said he "wanted" her and was afraid McCumber might object. McCumber disappeared from the Nuber home March 15. His body with head battered was found nine days later in an abandoned cistern. Bryant confessed to "throwing" a fake birthday party to which he invited all the whites and blacks in the gang, except McCumber. While the moonshine was "flowing freely," Bryant said, he sent Hedrick and Rhodes to "get" McCumber.

Hedrick took up the story at this point. "We forced him to walk with us through the hills for four miles," Hedrick said. "Then we shot him with a revolver. He fell to the ground groaning and then we placed our heels on his neck to stop his noise."

Seize Complete Distilling Plant

New York, March 31.—A wholesale distilling plant one of the most complete seized since prohibition according to police, was raided today. Four men being captured after a fight.

The plant located in Brooklyn, furnished two grades of alcohol, police alleged, one for consumption in the "blind-plugs" along the waterfront, and the other, a more expensive grade, for delivery to bootleggers in the residential districts.

Smashing their way through a skylight, the raiding squad said they discovered stills operating at full blast and four hundred gallons of alcohol, six barrels of mash and hundreds of bottles and counterfeit government labels.

Vincent D'Aganno, Matthew Corallo, Anthony Zappa, and Rosario Blandi were arraigned before United States Commissioner Barnore charged with violation of the dry law, and released in $1,000 bail each for a hearing.

GOVERNOR'S HOUSING BILL IS KILLED.

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—The judiciary committee of the assembly today was on record as having killed Governor Smith's housing proposal. The committee, by a vote of eight to four, refused to report the governor's measure for the consideration of the housing proposal.

The state housing board, a state housing bank and limited dividend corporations with power to build low-priced tenements would have been created under the governor's plan.

A Republican housing bill, sponsored by Senator Neill and Assemblyman Hofstadter of New York city, which eliminates the state housing bank but embodies most of the other suggestions made by the governor, is expected to be passed next week.

Governor Smith, in all probability, will sign the Republican housing bill when it reaches his desk. He has said he would approve any measure which would help solve the housing problem.

INDICTED SCHOOL DISTRICT TREASURER ARRESTED.

Minneapolis, N. Y., March 31.—Sheriff William R. Strohm of Nassau county, today received word from Dayton, Ohio, that authorities there have arrested Wilbur Clark, formerly treasurer of the North Merrick, Long Island, School District, indicted by the Nassau county grand jury in 1923, and who disappeared at that time.

Delinquencies totaling more than $1,000 were alleged by Post Nepe, president of the school district, to have been found in the accounts of Clark.

The message from Dayton said Clark was living there under the name of Fred I. O'Brien. Sheriff Strohm said he would leave shortly for Dayton to bring Clark back here for trial.

GOVERNOR MAY RETURN TO CAPITOL TOMORROW.

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—Governor Al Smith today had visitors, recovered from the cold and was thought which he conducted him to the Executive Mansion this Sunday.

The governor is expected to return to the Capitol tomorrow according to George B. Groves, his secretary. As soon as the governor returns to the executive chamber he is expected to sign two bills reducing the state income tax $14,000,000.

The governor declined to discuss the proposal that he become chief of the legislature at $24,000 a year.

POLITICS AND RELIGION

In another column in The Freeman today appears a letter from Mr. Clough that is typical of the more intelligent and temperate advocates of prohibition. It also illustrates the muddiness of mind that the contemplation of half truths brings about. The Freeman agrees with Mr. Clough in many of his assertions and conclusions. It agrees with him when he says that "violation of the prohibition law is but one indication of the general trend of our modern civilization." It would agree with him if he had omitted "modern", for violation of an oppressive and inquisitorial law has always marked humanity, whether civilized or not, and persistent attempts to enforce that which never should have existed in statute law is bound to bring about animosity toward the authorities and growing difficulty in enforcing all laws.

As to automobiles, movies, good wages, easy pleasures—which Mr. Clough seems to think are the real evils of the day—they existed before the Volstead Law, so that whether they are regarded as assets or liabilities, it is scarcely fair to credit or blame that law for their existence or for the effect they have on social and religious life.

The prohibition law itself is an indication of the trend of modern civilization, a mere symptom of the malady that brings about the state of which Mr. Clough complains—the lack of consideration for education, general culture, religion, and the serious things of life. When religionists conspire to bulldoze cowardly legislators into enacting whims and fads and details of sectarian creeds into statute law, they pass religion on to the police. Having divested themselves of the necessity for teaching the spiritual and moral truths and virtues that are the reason for their existence, why should not the rest of the world lose interest in them or at most regard them with contempt?

If congress can make mankind virtuous and send all of us to Heaven by enacting laws, why should anyone feel an interest in religion?

A HORSE HEAVEN.

The horse is still as important as ever in at least one place—the interesting neighborhood of Aiken, S. C., where the cream of America's polo hierarchy enjoy themselves on beautifully kept polo grounds, where are homes of wealthy horse owners from all parts of the United States, where young people are systematically taught to ride, hunt, shoot, swim, play tennis and golf, and where an automobile is never seen except on a neighboring through-highway on which "tourists" pass by at a limit of fifteen miles an hour. All visiting guests are met by horse-drawn vehicles. The horse at Aiken is in all his glory on the by-roads as well as on the race tracks, polo fields and steeplechase course.

Of this interesting anacronism in a motor car age an English groom at Aiken is quoted as saying, not without point: "It's 'ere that the 'orse reaches out and takes 'old, without 'amerin' on the 'ighway—it's a bit of a 'eaven for 'im."

The Washington police have received the following advice from Edwin B. Hesse, their superintendent: "Even when a prisoner becomes violent there is no reason for discourtesy. If you must hit him, hit him in a courteous way." But it was not explained just how one man can bludgeon another "courteously" and no wonder the policemen at the capital are reported to be stupefied. They probably realize that if they clubbed gently, even with a crowd, someone would be hurt. They would doubtless be rewarded with a knock-out blow, and what is to be done in order to continue to be "courteous," their chief complaint to tell them.

A notice was circulated in Washington Tuesday is honor of Dr. Crawford Long, the country doctor of Georgia who 84 years ago used ether in a surgical operation. Several other physicians born in this country and Europe employed an anesthetic in surgery at early dates, but it seems to be settled that Dr. Long was the very first. The first of the great surgeons of the present and Dr. Long's charges are pretty far apart. It is related that he once removed two tumors from the neck of a patient and charged $2.00 for each operation, adding 25 cents for the ether.

Mrs. Kathleen Norris, novelist, thinks that at least ten women would go voluntarily to their deaths in the electric chair if thereby they could secure the abolition of capital punishment, but there is no need of such a sacrifice even if it would be permitted. The results of murder trials in recent years show that capital punishment is already virtually abolished in this country.

INFECTED TEETH AND TONSILS.

Some months ago you perhaps read about Villa, the world's champion flyweight boxer, who died of poisoning from his teeth. Just how poison from teeth, tonsils, or other parts affect the system is not completely understood, but points have been discovered by Philadelphia physicians.

The first was that in infection in joints, that the blood took into itself more sugar than normal.

The blood in health is composed of materials in certain proportions and when these proportions are lowered or raised; changes must occur in the tissues to which the blood is carried.

As an illustration they cite the case of a patient with severe inflammation of the hip joint and badly infected tonsils, where the amount of sugar in the blood was nearly half as much again as normal. Two weeks later his tonsils were removed, and two weeks after the operation the sugar in the blood was normal in amount.

Another case was that of a patient with a normal amount of sugar in the blood in a certain date, and two weeks later he suffered with an inflammation in the sinus or caverna adjoining the nose, and his blood sugar went up nearly 50 per cent.

And the other point was that when a patient is having an attack of arthritis, that is inflammation of the joints or rheumatism as it is often called, it was found that the tissues do not extract from the blood as it passes through them, the usual amount of oxygen that the blood is willing to give to them.

Now this is a serious matter, because the oxygen going into tissues not only builds them up, but helps to burn up the worn out tissue. Unburned material is practically a poison to the system.

Now what are you going to do with information gained for you by these research men?

They have pointed out these two important points, that the blood when infected from teeth, tonsils and so forth, carries too much sugar in these cases and not enough oxygen with which to build up the tissues properly and remove thoroughly the worn out tissue.

In other words if after learning that you have bad teeth, tonsils or sinuses, you refuse to have the conditions corrected, and you have stiff joints, stiff muscles, and that tired lazy feeling, you know just who is to blame for it.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Modern spiritualism has its birth in mysterious "Rochester Rappings," begun March 31, 1849.

Rochester, county seat of Monroe county, and great natural port on the Genesee river where it empties into Lake Ontario and important manufacturing center, has long borne the celebrity which attaches to what have since been known, the world over, as "spiritual manifestations,"—knockings, rappings, table-movings and spirit communications, and the like.

But, in reality, to the secluded hamlet of Hydeville, in the town of Arcadia, Wayne county, belongs the pre-eminent distinction of being the place where a family named Fox first heard the mysterious sounds known as the "rappings" on the night of March 31, 1849.

Investigations were made in regard to the origin of the raps, but nothing definite was settled upon. The family soon afterward removed to Rochester, the "raps" accompanying them; and hence the name "Rochester Rappings."

A series of investigation were instituted, and the matter became public, some claiming for it a spiritual origin, but the great majority pronouncing it a delusion or illusion. As modern spiritualism has been revised from this source the story is of interest.

It was from this incident that the attempt for the first time was made to develop the subject on a scientific basis.

In the humble house in Hydeville, occupied in 1847, by Michael Weekman, was the starting point of all this astonishing movement. At different times during that year the tenant heard rappings upon his door, but on every occasion failed to discover any person present, or any producing source or cause, notwithstanding the most vigilant watch was maintained and industrious search instituted by the family and neighbors.

Under these uncomfortable circumstances Mr. Weekman removed from the premises, which were soon after tenanted by the family of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Fox and their daughter, Catherine and Margaretta.

The change of tenants was not attended by a cessation of the rappings, but the very reverse was the fact. From March 31, 1849, the house was disturbed, from night to night, by some constantly recurring sounds in every part of the house, especially in close proximity to the bed occupied by the Fox sisters.

At length it was accidentally discovered by Margaretta that the unseen "rapper" was so intelligent as to be able to reply to various pertinent questions, and so communicative as to declare that he was the spirit of a murdered peddler.

In a little while the parties were unable to open a distinct communication by means of the simple method of rapping, the facts of which were related by the Rev. Mr. Fishbough, an early investigator of the phenomena.

The Fox family removed to Rochester and took up their abode with a married sister, Mrs. Fish, who subsequently became celebrated as a medium, through whom the manifestations were exhibited.

On the removal of the Fox family to Rochester the manifestations accompanied them. When this discovery was noised abroad, a belief that intercourse could be obtained with the spirit-world became epidemic and numerous "spirit-drearies" were formed in various parts of America.

At length, on November 14, 1849, in accordance, as was said, with directions from "the spirits," a public lecture on the origin and character of the manifestations was given in Corinthian Hall, Rochester, at which the "mediums" were present. Manifestations were had, and a committee was chosen from the audience to make a thorough examination into their nature and origin.

This committee reported the next evening to a crowded assembly that they had utterly failed to discover in what manner the mysterious raps were produced.

Various theories were produced from the first. The manifestations said to be obtained from the spirits were rappings, table-turnings, musical sounds, intelligent communications, raising of heavy bodies, etc.

Part of the peculiarity of these phenomena was that they were always more or less associated with the medium who was supposed to have an organization sensitively fitted to communicate with the spirit world.

ANOTHER WAR THREATENS.

Braintree, Mass., March 31, 1776.—Mrs. John Adams sent a letter by today's post-express to her husband, who is a member of the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, and who is advocating an early declaration of independence. She wrote in part as follows:

"I long to hear that you have declared an independency. And, by the way, in the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors. Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could. If particular care and attention is not paid to the ladies, we are determined to foment a rebellion, and will not hold ourselves bound by any laws in which we have no voice or representation."

"That your sex are naturally tyrannical is a truth so thoroughly established as to admit of no dispute, but such of you as wish to be happy will give up the harsh title of master for the more tender and endearing one of friend. Why, then, not put it out of the power of the vicious and the lawless to use us with cruelty and indignity with impunity? Men of sense in all ages abhor those customs which treat us only as the vassals of your sex; regard us then as beings placed by Providence under your protection, and in imitation of the Supreme Being make use of that power only for our happiness."

MT. TREMPER GRANGE PLANS ENTERTAINMENT

Mt. Tremper, March 31.—As usual the Mt. Tremper Grangers met at the hall last Friday evening for business, recreation and refreshments. All were pleased to hear the news that their treasury weathered the recent storm and is sailing over less precarious reefs.

Some time ago it was announced that the Grange was planning an entertainment, and now the Grangers can inform the waiting world that they are going to present a play, or more definitely, a comedy that will leave the audience with a broad grin for weeks. Further secrets as to the title, the date of performance, the cast of all stars and other details a little later after the committee puts their three heads together.

At the recent Ulster County Masters' and Lecturers' Conference and Home Economics committee meeting in Kingston, Mt. Tremper Grange could boast of 100 per cent attendance. The master Mr. De Silva, and the lecturer Mr. Ross, inspired members with reports from the conference to aid them in community improvement and welfare as well as the betterment of Grange work.

How to Kill "Flu" and Cold Germs

ANALYSIS RESULTS REPORTED.

So many people report such remarkable results in warding off colds and "flu" through the use of a new method of treatment that it seems no more than right that greater publicity should be given to the new idea. Just ask four out of five who you see who have had colds or flu when you first feel chilly or begin to have other cold pains. Continue this treatment and all discomforts symptoms will disappear. This same prescription is used by many physicians as it is perfectly safe.

Girl Bandit Leader Arrested

New Bedford, Mass., March 31.—From mill girl to gun woman" is the Anti-Laura Jean Libbey role enacted in real life here by sixteen-year-old, bobbed Miss Emma P. Benoit, according to a confession which police said today she made.

The girl, also armed with a pistol and capable of using it, led a gang of bandits in a series of robberies that range from tenement burglaries to safe blowing, and the loot mounted into thousands of dollars, police said.

Joseph H. Thomas and Leo Mendon were arrested first but they shielded the girl. They are said to have given information, however, which led to the arrest of Walter Maciejewski, John Vincenzo and Walter Wana.

The last three, police said, reverted to the alibi of old and pointed to Emma as the "brains" of the alleged gang and the one who carried "the cat."

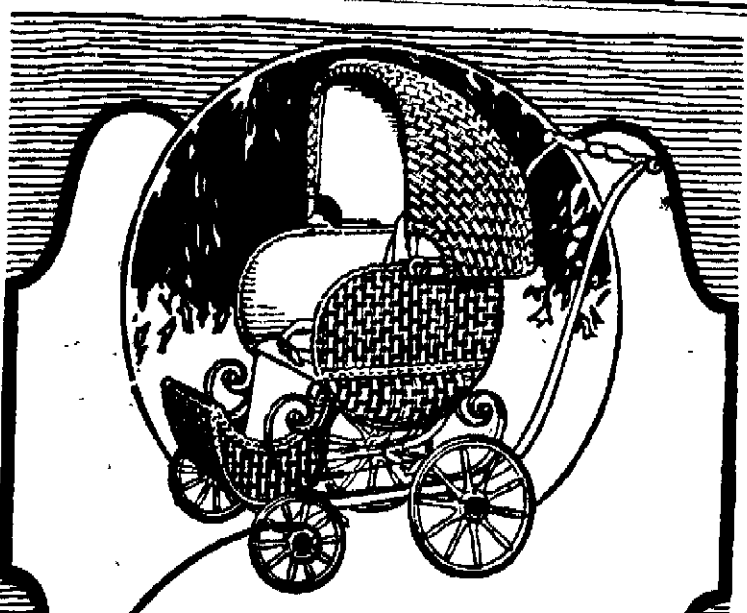

At first, according to police, Emma maintained innocence, but when she discovered what the three had told, police said she made a confession.

Among the robberies she confessed, according to police, was that of the safe of the Paisier-Wills Company, where seven hundred dollars was taken.

THE HOUNDED WANTLINE COMES IN FOR DISCUSSION AND THERE IS ALWAYS THE JUMPER AND AGAIN THE TUCK-IN

In attempting to digest the many style features played up in the Paris openings, one becomes rather positive about the importance of yokes. They are treated variously and are not of course entirely indispensable. They seem a part and parcel of good tailoring and must be listed among the newer treatments.

Fashion has been experimenting off and on with boleros for some time without gaining any perceptible headway, but the openings have provided a new interest in this line. It is one of the many interpretations of the two-piece costume which persists although some of the couturiers show a tendency to minimize the jumper. Interest, in fact, has been aroused in the tuck-in blouse as an appropriate companion for the two-piece tailleur. It appears to have the sponsorship of Martini et Armand, Talbot, Patou and even others, but such a drastic change in the matter of blouses may of course not be made this season, even though so ably sponsored. Women as a rule have an aversion to anything which breaks the line at the waist; certainly the overblouse has met with general approval largely because it may terminate at any level and does away with all possibilities of an indescribable parting of the ways where waist and skirt join. The strictly tailored tendency which is one of the interests of the moment, would logically enough focus attention on skirts, so that the development, to some extent at least of the tuck-in shirtwaist may be expected. In the meantime the jumper theme is constantly being enlarged upon, by other factions and is again with perhaps even greater insistence offered for evening. Not only kasha but all materials of the cashmere type are being worked in for spring.

Mlle. RENOUARD FAVORS ROBIN'S EGG BLUE, BLACK AND WHITE DOTS, AND PINKISH BEIGE IN "LECOLE DU BONHEUR."

Paris—At the Theatre Danton, three acts by Paul Gavault, was presented recently. Mlle. Renouard portrays the part of a young heiress of an old and distinguished family, about to be betrothed to a young man of similar standing and position. The plot offers many difficulties for the couple and is interesting and humorous in its development.

Geometrical Design on Three-Quarter Coat.

Mlle. Renouard wears some attractive clothes by Lanvin. Her first entrance is in a robin's egg blue georgette jumper dress, with a matching three-quarter tailored coat. The jumper and sleeves of the coat are embroidered in a striped design with an intervening pattern of dots. The coat is collarless, but features a bucke yoke into which the back of the coat is slightly gathered.

She next appears in white crepe with an all-over design of black dots about the size of a quarter. This dress shows a decided drop in the waistline in back, and is trimmed with light blue in the collar, cuffs, and skirt banding.

Her gown in the last act, is a delicate pinky buff chiffon, is appealing in color, and combines with mother-of-pearl fast fash in the belt and neckline-like line of the bodice. The soft snarl, lying around the neck in a large bow in back with full streamers, further distinguishes this dress. Both the last mentioned dress and the first one have straight skirts, while the fronts of the skirts are formed of acetate.

Side Bone and Summer for Red (Type French).

Mlle. Galie, another member of the cast, also dressed by Lanvin, wears a red crepe costume, very simple in line, with a separate vest of red and colored plaid tied around the neck, with a large side bow and long streamers. The accompanying hat is of the red in the small turned brim, with the crown in of the plaid.

Comes Back Home Ten Pounds Lighter

One of our most townsmen just back from New York is enjoying the comments on her improved appearance. She says "I found my Fifth Avenue friends enthusiastic over a delicious new fat-reducing cream. It contains a certain herbaceous medicinal oil purely vegetable in character—free from thyroid or dangerous drugs—which quickly dissolves fat cells. It is called 'Boudier' I tried it myself—and in pounds—and expect to reduce 10 more. I have had our local druggists send off for large supplies of Boudier so the all our stout townsmen may shed their fat as I have."

Kingston Girl Scout Troop Busy

Last Saturday the Scouts of Mrs. Haley's troop held a cake sale at Van Wagenen's store on Wall street. The proceeds of the sale are to go towards the individual camp fund of each of the Scouts of the troop. The girls have been working and saving all year to get together enough money to take them to Camp Wendy this summer for at least a week. This sale netted each girl about a dollar. There is a secret connected with this cake sale which will be disclosed in a short time.

Scout Bertha Greenwell, daughter of the Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, was a guest at a farewell party given by the Forget-me-not Troop of Girl Scouts on Monday. The girls had arranged a program, performed stunts, played games, sang Scout songs and at the end when they said good-bye to Scout Greenwell, they presented Scout Greenwell with a real Scout knife.

Two of the Scouts of this troop are ill. Scout Helen Short is recovering from an operation for appendicitis at the Benedictine Hospital, and Scout Gertrude Jacobson is confined to her home by a bad sore throat.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

THE ORANG-UTAN

"Visitors visitors," said Toto, the orang-utan to himself.

Shake Hands With Lucy.

Now, an orang-utan is of the monkey family, only he is bigger than the usual monkey.

"A very nice little girl is coming to see me," Toto said once more.

Sure enough! The keeper brought a little girl named Lucy over near Toto's cage.

"Well, what can you do today?" the keeper asked.

Toto put his arm out of the cage and patted the keeper as though to say:

"I'll do some tricks. Never fear!" The keeper opened Toto's cage and Toto jumped out. The keeper took him in his arms, and he was a pretty big animal too.

Toto put his arms around the keeper's neck, and when the keeper said: "Shake hands with Lucy," he did so most politely.

Then the keeper put Toto back in his cage, leaving the door open, and he took a big piece of rope and tied knot after knot in it.

"Now, Toto, show Lucy and all the other visitors at the zoo what sort of an orang-utan you are."

"Show them your best trick!" Then Toto sat down on the floor of his big cage and began to untie the knots. He did every single one of them, too, and some of them were mighty hard.

Everyone looked at Toto and said to themselves and to each other: "We could not do that."

When Toto was all through and had untied every one of the knots, he clapped his hands, as though to give himself some praise and applause, and then he grinned so no one would think he was conceited.

For he was not conceited at all and he wouldn't want any one to think he was.

He thought every creature should be able to do some tricks and that it was only natural he should, too.

Toto began to feel playful after this and found an orange, an apple, a pear and a banana, which in turn he threw to the keeper and Lucy, and they put each piece of fruit back again.

Toto thought that was a fine game and he kept playing it with the keeper and Lucy for quite a while.

Then he had a glorious hay fight with Lucy.

They threw some of the hay in Toto's cage back and forth and if Toto had been able to talk the talk of human beings, he would have said that hay fights were the greatest fun in the world, particularly when you had such a jolly person with whom to play as Lucy.

He admired Lucy very much. He liked to hear her laugh and hear her voice and he liked to hear her say:

"I'm just crazy about it." He knew she wasn't really crazy about anything—that is he knew she wasn't in the least afraid, particle, bit, crazy in any possible way.

It was even crazy to think such a thought for a second, or even speak of the fact that Lucy most certainly wasn't crazy!

But he knew that when she said she was crazy about anything it meant she liked it tremendously, and he was delighted when the keeper asked if she liked the hay fight with Toto to hear her say:

"I'm just crazy about it." Then he did some tricks on his tummy and gave a performance which was even better than his usual one, so the keeper was more than ever proud of him.

And in the land where most I grow
The faces that bend over me

At other times in pairs I lurk
And help them with their wurtite work.

Dog's Adopted Mother

Virginia was out walking when she came across a forlorn-looking dog. He cowered in her arms when she picked him up and seemed to belong to no one. She took him home and decided to keep him.

"Where did you get that dog? To whom does he belong?" asked daddy.

"To me, I'm his adopted mother," indignantly informed Virginia.

All Is Vanity!

"Vanity of vanities, such the preacher, vanity of vanities: all is vanity."

Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, agrees with the preacher.

"America's beauty bill," he told the New Orleans Federation of Women's Clubs, "is $60,000,000 a year." And he attacked vigorously plastic surgery, cosmetics, "beauticians" and "cosmetologists" who share in this great vanity fund.

The doctor finds no merit in rouge or even beauty creams. You can't have any, nor Cleopatra, he said triumphantly.—New Orleans Item-Tribune.

Sam and the Weather

The chief of the weather bureau, Dr. C. F. Marvin, is not one of those who believe that solar variation is of importance in forecasting weather. He thinks variation in the intensity of solar radiation is of small importance in the government meteorologist in propagating future climatic conditions. So far, says Doctor Marvin, he and his colleagues in the weather bureau have found little to substantiate the contention of certain students at the Smithsonian Institution to the effect that the variations in weather can be ascribed to the variation of the rays of the sun.—Pittsburgh Courier.

Sicilian Brigand

The Madonian mountains in Sicily have for a long time been infested with brigands who have been committing murders and robberies and kidnapping people without being molested.

The new Fascist prefect and the new chief of police determined to rid the terrorized inhabitants of these human pests. They surrounded all the small towns adjacent to the mountains with militiamen, policemen and mounted carabinieri, and after a four months' blockade they have captured the notorious brigand, Ferrarello, and his band of 50 men, who have been raiding the surrounding districts for the last 20 years.

NEW WAYS WITH PASTRIES

TO BE SHOWN THURSDAY

The third and last class of the three-day cookery course being conducted by the Kingston Gas and Electric Company will be held tomorrow afternoon in the new home service auditorium at 5 Field Court, by Miss Margaret H. Bodkin, home service director.

The subject to be discussed and demonstrated is "New Ways with Pastries." "Pie like mother used to bake" has become a familiar slogan. But there are many variations to this time-honored feature of a good dinner which are being developed from time to time and which add to the ease of preparation as well as to the richness of crust, flavor of fillings and forms of serving.

Miss Bodkin will give out and demonstrate new recipes which are original with the home service department of the Central Hudson System, and will show many labor-saving short cuts. The pastries baked in the home service auditorium as a part of this meeting will be served to those in attendance.

This meeting will be open without charge to the women of Kingston and vicinity, who are cordially invited to attend, whether or not they have attended either of the preceding two classes.

Great interest has been shown in the first two meetings of this three-day spring cookery course and the third meeting tomorrow will be just as interesting and helpful as the previous ones.

Higher Standard For Roadside Inns

(Main Principle to Be Applied to Roadside Dining Places—Whereby Tourist Will Be Assured That He Will Get Cleanliness and Good Quality.)

Springfield, Mass., March 31—Something entirely new in travelling and tourist accommodations for the motorist, effective April 1, is announced by The Approved Wayside Stations, Inc., of Springfield, in the application of the chain principle to roadside restaurants and wayside inns throughout the eastern states.

The movement is in response to a demand that has arisen as a result of increasing chaotic conditions along the highways and the establishment within a few years of hundreds of inns, tea rooms, restaurants, etc., of varying quality. It is to protect and direct automobilists travelling the highways and seeking the right type of eating places that The Approved Wayside Stations, a Massachusetts corporation, has been organized. It has received the endorsement of state officials, civic leaders and automobile club officers throughout New England.

Membership in this approved station chain is open only to establishments that, after thorough investigation, are found to meet a high standard of cleanliness, superior service, respectability and fair dealing, a standard maintained by competent and regular inspection. Each station in the chain will be designated by a copyrighted emblem, octagon in shape, with design and lettering in blue and mahogany on a yellow background.

Each member station will provide light luncheons in addition to its own specialties, insuring a standardized service and thereby eliminating uncertainty in the mind of the motorist. At the same time it does not prevent or discourage the individual proprietor from exercising ingenuity in providing a supplementary bill of fare.

A Reward of Thrift

By EUDORA R. RICHARDSON

ELIZABETH MCBRIDE STARED vacantly into space as she sat on her quaint little porch. In her lap beneath her fingers that interlaced constantly lay the letter telling of the loss of her savings. Only two thousand could be salvaged—scarcely much as her mother had left her. Suddenly Lizzie leaped to her feet under the compulsion of a new and daring thought. Two thousand dollars on interest would yield nothing worth considering.

Half an hour later Lizzie McBride presented herself at the window of the local bank. Everyone was, as usual, polite to her, but she longed to be greeted as a person of importance. She admired Carl Bristow, the cashier, who had married her cousin, Mary Thompson and buried his wife many years before.

"I want to place this two thousand dollars on my checking account," Miss Lizzie said seriously. "I may need all of it soon."

Carl Bristow looked up from the batch of bills he was tabulating. "Good Lord!" he gasped.

The little lady slipped out of the bank, pleasantly aware that she had aroused a man's curiosity and interest. That night in her bare little room she reviewed with something akin to a girlish thrill the events of the day. A new hat, flapperish in its gaudy, sat proudly upon the bed. Miss Lizzie loosened the prim coil and let her hair fall about her shoulders. Looking upon her reflection in the glass, she flushed. Indeed, with a new interest, she was almost pretty. Thinking of the silver coupe that reposed stiff and shiny in the old stable, she smeared powder over the few crow's feet at the corners of her eyes, arranged her hair experimentally and slipped into the most sumptuous of her dresses.

There was an insistent clang of the brass knocker. In terror Lizzie McBride realized that she must run down and answer the summons in the new and daring outfit. Cheeks still ashen with heat, she swung the door open and Carl Bristow entered. When Lizzie beheld his perplexed countenance she laughed outright and there was a note in her voice that sounded even to her more like twenty than forty.

"I hear you've been doing a deal of buying," he began. "I reckon it's my duty to give you a bit of advice." In a twinkling the illusion of youth had vanished. Miss Lizzie, sitting quite erect, looked her guest in the eye.

"Have my actions in the past led you to think me the sort of woman who would spend beyond my means?" she asked directly.

The man shook his head. "Then perhaps I've been left money," she smiled and quickly changed the subject.

During the next few days Miss Lizzie began to realize that a new attitude toward her was the most delightful aftermath of her extravagance. There were social invitations that had never come before. She had become a personage at last. Indeed, Lizzie wondered how she had happened ever to suffer from an inferiority complex. From Carl Bristow's attentions, moreover, came the real thrill.

For when one evening there came a party invitation accompanied by the news that Mr. Bristow would call for her, Lizzie did not feel the lack of any youthful emotion.

"Lizzie," Carl said on the way home, slipping his hand to cover hers, "you are mighty pretty tonight. I never thought that money could make such a difference in a woman. I've always liked you, but I didn't know till recently that my feelings go a whole lot deeper than liking."

For a moment Lizzie's head reeled. Carl Bristow was making love to her. She would not have to be drab Miss Lizzie any longer. Then the man's first words came back with poignant agony. Money made the difference.

"Oh, I'm a fool!" she burst forth. "A fool! I have no money. I've been spending all I had to get some of the things I've wanted all these years. I'm penniless now!"

Jerking her hand from Carl Bristow's, Lizzie McBride ran up her garden path. She would now live in the lonely little house all the rest of her life—or until she was no longer able to teach, and then she would go to the county home. She did not even look back to see what Carl was doing. As her hand dropped for the lock, she realized that Carl's arms were encircling her, that his face was being turned toward her.

"Lizzie," the man said huskily, "you didn't think I loved you for the money you hinted was yours, did you? I mean that the money that bought the pretty clothes that made me see how pretty you really are. I love you!"

"Love me, when I have deceived you and the whole town?"

"You may have deceived the town, but you didn't deceive me. I heard about your losing your money, and I came up to talk it over with you that night you met me at the door looking so pretty that I wanted to take you in my arms at once. I knew you were bluffing, and I loved you for being so brave. Will you marry me, Lizzie?"

The woman looked for him against the starry tracery of the man's coat and left. The man thinking how strange, felt worth to bring about the marriage.

Now Is Time to Clean Your Auto

A. A. A. Shows How a Clean-up and Overhauling of the Motor Vehicle at the Opening of the Spring Touring Season May Eliminate Costly Repairs and Possible Accidents.

Washington, D. C., March 31—Many of the car owner's costly repair bills as well as a considerable number of accidents which the spring touring season always brings could be avoided if all motorists made it a point to give their cars the necessary clean-up and overhauling before they take to the open road, declared a statement issued by the American Automobile Association today.

Winter's ravages on mechanism and machinery, the hundred and one strains produced by exposure to cold nights under the open sky or in unheated garages, by snow or wet pavements, by the invasion of rust and the dross of oil and gasoline, all combine to put the car in need of attention before the motorist launches his season of long-distance driving, the A. A. A. warns.

The A. A. A. bulletin, based on the experience of a host of "troublemen" attached to the emergency service stations of its affiliated clubs throughout the country, lists this advice:

Drain your crank case. Clean out your cooling system, being sure that the fan belt and all hose connections are in good order. Inspect the bearings in the wheels.

Tighten all chassis and body bolts. Flush radiator, and be sure there are no leaks in it.

Insure proper lubrication of transmission and differential. Clean up the entire gasoline distributing system.

Test the alignment of the steering gear and the wheels. Go over the tires and the rims. Test the batteries.

Give the generator and starter a house cleaning.

"The average motorist," the A. A. A. adds, "cannot always do this himself. But the garage around the corner will do it for $10 or $15, rarely going above $20. This may look like a big sum to many, but there are thousands of cases where the expenditure of it would have saved $200 or $300 for major repairs at a later date. With America's twenty million cars taking to the highways in the spring, a terrific saving is sure to ensue, if prevention instead of cure is practiced. The modern car is mechanically fool proof, but it is not proof against deterioration and there is no doubt that many accidents are due to weakened and deteriorated mechanism and parts out of proper alignment."

The statement continues: "During the winter gasoline seeps throughout the crank case, and, if left, causes valve trouble, lack of power, friction which results in overheating and destructive wear and tear on all moving parts."

"The fan belt which is not needed in winter because the weather itself prevents overheating may have slipped. Its condition might not make itself known until a geyser of steam suddenly spouts from the radiator."

"It may not cause serious damage to run with the radiator half empty in the winter, but in warm weather it must be full. Obviously, if there are leaks, no matter how minute, the radiator cannot remain full.

"Winter does very much the same thing to an automobile that a wad of the stenographer's gum would do to the mechanism of a clock. The waste of oil and gasoline, salted by winter's alchemy, spreads through the car, damaging everything it touches."

"Most motorists either do not know this or ignore it until their cars stop suddenly, unable to go on because the fuel will not flow, or because some other vital part has ceased to function."

"Thus, the spring overhauling is an investment for the future. The life of the car is prolonged, the possibility of accident reduced, the owner is saved money, and motoring is made a vastly more agreeable and safer affair."

Ford

When You Trade Your Car—

Ford owners are continually being approached by automobile salesmen who wish to "accept" Fords as part payment on more expensive cars.

It is perfectly logical that automobile dealers everywhere should be eager to trade with Ford owners. The Ford is the most popular automobile in the world. No other used car is so easy to sell as a used Ford—because everyone has confidence in Ford quality. And it is not expensive to re-condition, since Ford replacement parts are low in price.

Most automobiles carry greater discounts to dealers than the Ford—another reason why other dealers may offer the Ford owner a larger trade-in allowance.

But when you come to buy a new car, bear these facts in mind:

The amount of the trade-in allowance you can get is not the most important thing for you to consider. The big thing is the difference you have to pay. And remember, that the higher priced car will not be so easy to dispose of when you come to trade it in.

If you wish to trade your Ford for a new automobile, stick to the car that you know to be dependable, useful and economical. Go to your Ford dealer!

He will give you a fair and liberal allowance for your present Ford and will gladly arrange payment of the balance to suit your convenience.

When the deal is over, and you have your new and improved Ford, you will have the satisfaction of knowing positively that you took advantage of the greatest automobile value the world has ever seen—and saved a lot of money, too.

RADIO

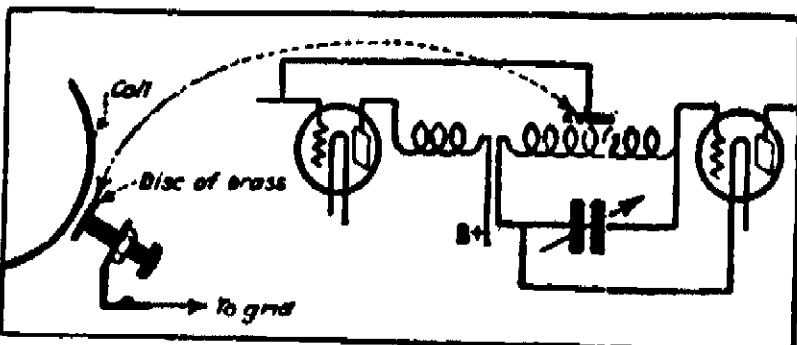

Fig. 2—Showing the Scheme Devised by Glenn Browning for Neutralizing a Radio Frequency Receiver.

By L. W. HATRY

In New York-Herald Tribune.
Many home radio engineers, using the term engineer with extreme generality, design excellent little sets. That is, these home designers subtract ideas out of various articles they have read and screw them together to make a component whole including the things that they want. The men that do this sort of thing know a little of the technical and mysterious end of radio-electricity; but, much more important, they understand a deal of the practical application of things. This is written for these men. It is hoped that it will help somewhat in their rectifying a thing often done haphazardly.

First, at the risk of being uninteresting, let us go into the theory of the Haseltine or any neutralizing scheme. The theory fits most of them, but the specific application discussed will be Haseltine's.

The Neutralizing Arrangement.

There is a feed-back from plate to grid in a radio-frequency tube that results in the oscillation so annoying without some annulling or neutralizing scheme. The feed-back may be reduced by sacrifice of effectiveness, by introduction of losses or by a neutralizing, so-called, arrangement. The neutralizing idea works on what is known as the bridge principle. Notice the diagram in Fig. 1. The path from input to B plus, going backward for the moment, is a double one. The current can either go by the capacity of O and the inductance of L₁, or by the capacity of GP and the inductance of L₂ (L₂ because L is tapped in the middle). Now, if the current divided equally in both of those branches and reversed itself in one branch to result in opposition, the result at B plus would be nothing, assuming that we control the paths CL₁ and GPL₂, so that they are equal, and thus pass equal but opposing forces. That being the case it becomes apparent that if L₁ and L₂ are equal the condenser C must have the same capacity as between GP. That sounds all right, but the capacity from G to P is very small, and it is quite a trick to provide so small a capacity at C without having the wires running from L and G overdo the job.

Now, the exact arrangement of Fig. 1 is being used at present in many sets employing a single stage of radio frequency amplification. The detector-coupler primary L is a coil of double winding, two wires in parallel, or a single winding tapped in the center, as L indicates. Yet practical set conditions often make it impossible to put the proper capacity at C, so that the process of neutralizing is practically impossible successfully. This trouble is simple to rectify. If we express the relation mentioned in the foregoing paragraph in a mathematical formula, it will be:

$\frac{1}{C} = \frac{1}{C_1} + \frac{1}{C_2}$ —permitting C to represent capacity between grid and plate. It is apparent immediately that if any one member of the equation is reduced an increase of its partner will balance things again. If L is reduced, then C must be increased, or vice versa. That is true offers a solution to the neutralizing trouble. It is general practice to use a small midge variable condenser whose capacity is .0008 mfd. or greater generally. Under the circumstances $\frac{1}{C}$ could just as well become $\frac{1}{C_1}$ on the C side of the equation. In this case L to C would be a half of L to P in terms, since the turns ratio make the voltage present at C. Speaking concretely, where L would ordinarily be a total of 30 turns tapped in the center, it should be instead 27 turns tapped to put 15 turns between P and B plus and 9 turns on the neutralizing side to the condenser C.

The Neutralizing Current.

The method of obtaining the necessary neutralizing current, as used in the Haseltine, is well known. It is shown schematically in Fig. 2. What the foregoing should have imparted in part is that the balancing or neutralizing side of the bridge formed did not need so much to be actually part of the primary inductance L as merely a control circuit allowing the passage of the correct opposing current to the grid of the tube to be neutralized. So, if we arrange such a control circuit from a proper source of opposing current we can effect the same thing. This was done in the commercial neutrodyne by tapping off the inductance L₁, which was secondary to L₂, for the voltages or currents in a secondary circuit are generally completely out of phase with those in the primary. The primary L was almost always stuck at the filament end of L₁ as Fig. 2 indicates, so that the voltage transfer from L to L₁ at the lower portions would be made with small loss. Thus the tap at L₁ generally included the same number of turns as were present in L, giving an oppositional current whose voltage was practically equal to that put on the plate by L. Control of the neutralizing capacity C would then put the exact neutralizing voltage on G. Since L and L₁ were equal the condenser C had to have the same capacity as that between grid and plate—a very hard condition to meet, as was said—in the home-made, and in many cases, the factory-made set.

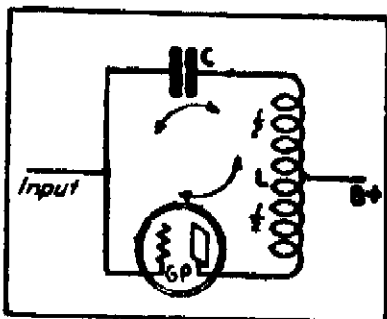

Fig. 2—Method of Obtaining Necessary Neutralizing Current.

The remedy is again as before. Have a small neutralizing inductance and a large variable condenser. Tap off the secondary of the neutrodyne L₁ to include the number of turns to the filament equal to about one-half of L, the primary. Then the neutralizing condenser is safely the usual midge, but not very satisfactorily the so-called neutrodyne of the sliding tube type.

To Obviate the Trouble.

Fig. 3 illustrates the simply obvious scheme devised by Glenn Browning of Browning-Drake fame, which obviates the troubles we have just mentioned. The little disk of metal coming near to the inductance coil makes of itself and the coil a neutralizing capacity and tap in a unique fashion. Of course, if it is not placed properly in relation to the voltage, at which it overneutralizes and thus fails.

Sets employing a neutralized stage of radio frequency—regenerative detector and whatever necessary audio—are easy to neutralize by means of a simple procedure. Starting off with the neutralizing capacity at its maximum, adjust the tickler for oscillation with the two-tuned circuits in tune. It probably will be found that the tickler rotates through a greater arc than the proper 90 degrees for the steady oscillating state. This signifies that the first tube is oscillating as well, and it should not. Make a slight adjustment of the neutralizing condenser. See if the result is a necessary greater increase of the tickler. Continue this until, not having changed the tuning, the adjustment of the tickler arrives at its greatest proportion of nonoscillating to oscillating portion of the arc of its swing. In other words, until it is necessary to give the greatest amount of tickler to start oscillation. When this condition has been reached the first tube is probably not oscillating and the behavior of oscillation and regeneration will be less erratic and more regular. This is a method of neutralizing that may be done any time of day or night, independent of both a strong signal or a buzzer and battery.

Aerials Safely Placed

Will Save Much Trouble

Amateur electricians hanging aerials for radio sets often make some gross error or oversight with the result that they put themselves and their property in grave danger. In the past few months several serious accidents have occurred in different parts of New England and with the object of overcoming this and at the same time protecting their own installation, the principal electric light company of Worcester, Mass., has issued a notice that its officials will inspect all such wires free of charge, upon request of the owner. The radio owners of that city were quick to avail themselves of the opportunity and a number of antennae were found that were suspended over or near the heavily charged electric wires of the company, and in the event of falling would have been the cause of death or of serious injury and damage to the property.

Nutty Natural History

THE AFRICAN BOTT DOG.

This interesting member of the canine tribe was discovered by Prof. Dumkopf of Vienna in 1842 when investigating the wild Hottentot tribes. It is found in the craters of several active volcanoes where the intense heat keeps it in a continuous boiling condition. The Hottentots prize their most highly and Prof. Dumkopf, after testing it, became so enthusiastic about it that he captured several and took them back to Vienna. It was through his work that the Wiesner (German for Vienna) Warte (German for dog) was originated. In the last few years a few have been imported to this country and placed on exhibition at Coney Island.

The bott dog is such an estimated creature that we were only able to show the front part of it, but, as can be seen, the body is an ordinary whe-overst with a single peanut head, split almost over, and popcorn nose. The feet are split almonds and the legs claws. The bott legs are the same, and, as it has no tail, you can readily imagine the rear section.

How Condenser Operates

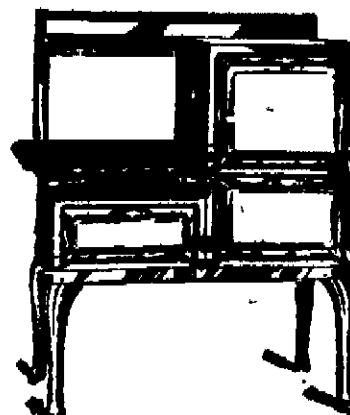

The first condenser in the grid circuit of a vacuum coupled radio-supplier is an important part of the operation, as it allows the radio frequency current to reach the grid of the vacuum tube to reach the grid of the next, but prevents the D. C. plate battery voltage from reaching the grid.

Clough Enters Dry Debate

Keelers a Lack of "Point With Pride"
Feeling on the Part of Drys Although It Is Very Noticeable Among Wets.

Woodstock, N. Y., March 29, 1926.
To the Editor of The Freeman.

I would like to beg sufficient space in your columns to ask a few questions of your readers on the prohibition debate so much in the foreground in our newspapers at this time.

The recent straw vote on the prohibition law has been of interest. But we should not be misled into thinking the results show any representative "voice of the people." I have pointed out elsewhere that the total vote cast approximated in numbers the population of Philadelphia, so we can hardly call that much of a vote.

It seems that for a more accurate idea of public sentiment on this question, we should have a straw vote, or an expression of opinion, as to the several general social conditions so closely allied with the much-heralded violations of the prohibition laws. We can hear any day on the street our citizens tell of the places openly violating the prohibition laws along the public highways leading into Kingston. It seems that there is a note of pride in these statements which marks the "talkers" as wets. Only recently one of these places was padlocked; I have heard little "pointing with pride" about this and wonder why the dries are so mute.

Many of our newspapers are being misled into giving space to the current chatter about "more drinking than ever before." They are led by a desire to reflect public opinion, to favoring the wets, thinking the while that they are reflecting public opinion. In my humble opinion, if the recent agitation of the wets succeeds bringing about a popular national referendum, the result would be a vote favoring the continuance, with stricter enforcement, of the prohibition law. In Wayne B. Wheeler's second installment of the story of prohibition, running in the New York Times, he tells that the finances have come from "the little people of the country, just as the prohibition sentiment came from them."

I may be wrong, but I cannot help but feel that these easterners, especially the New Yorkers, draw on local conditions to estimate the sentiment of the entire country.

We cannot deny but that "open violations" are becoming common hereabouts; that the enforcement agents succumb to graft; that youngsters are learning a wholesale disregard for laws in general, and that morally, law-breaking is worse than drinking under a legalized regime. But is it fair to charge these social conditions to the prohibition law? Does not our wealth, our post-war whirl of materialism and pleasure, our parental lowering of home standards, all contribute to the general condition of affairs? These are a few questions I would like to poll your readers on.

Violation of the prohibition law is but one indication of the general trend of our modern civilization. When we attempt to investigate the home, as a social unit, where youngsters first learn how to adjust themselves to life, we see the movies, the autos, and other potent influences bringing about a great change these past ten years. There is the effect of our prosperous era on home conditions. People nowhere on the face of the earth live better, have better foods, better clothes, more pleasures, than Americans today.

Tell me whether this does not tend to lessen our concern about religion, whether it does not speed up daily life to such extent that it leaves little time for serious consideration of education and of general culture? What to do about it? That's a far bigger question than what to do with the unenforced prohibition law!

One cannot publicly denounce the autos, the movies, good wages, easy pleasures,—yet these things certainly combine to detract the human mind from more serious application to life, and have brought about, in part, the many social ills and evils of the day. I cannot understand why the law-abiding citizens remain dumb while the organized wets wrongly charge bringing about every evil in our social structure.

Here is an open challenge to professional men, to ministers. I do not know what the many local clergymen have to say in their pulpits, but surely in this current argument they might well step down from their platforms and wedge a few words into the public press on this important sociological question of the day.

If you care to suggest a local poll of your readers on this question, it seems to me that the subject should challenge every religious, educational and social worker in the city of Kingston, and should bring forth some valuable contributions to a timely and important discussion. If there are "dries" not scared into silence by warped "wet" publicity, such a local poll of expression might burn them into permanent a bit of the other side of the question.

Respectfully yours,
F. GARDNER CLOUGH

Figuring Profit And Loss for Tax

Record-breaking stock transactions last year probably means that many state taxpayers have been affected.

Uncertainty exists as to the figuring of profit or loss according to District Director John G. Malone of the Albany office of the State Income Tax Bureau. "Where the stock sold was bought after January 1, 1919," he said, "the profit or loss is the difference between the cost and selling price, both of which are reduced by amounts paid for brokers' commissions. It is permissible under the state law in these cases to total both the cost of the securities and the sale price and then show the result."

"Where stocks were bought before January 1, 1919, two rules are to be followed. Where profit is made the taxpayer subtracts the higher of either the cost or January 1, 1919, value of the stock from the sale price. Where a loss is sustained he takes the difference between the lower of the cost or January 1, 1919, value and sales price."

"Taxpayers faced with these problems should consult Auditor R. Pizer of this bureau, who is at county clerk's office, Kingston, March 26 to April 10."

"These rules are distinctly different from those applying under the Federal Revenue Act and taxpayers filing state returns are asked to observe them carefully in entering these transactions under Schedule E of state Form 201."

Railroad Wins In Highest Court

Court of Appeals Renders Their Decision in the De Cicco Cases Which Arose From Accident at Flatbush Avenue Crossing in Which Two Children Were Killed.

The court of appeals Tuesday handed down a decision affirming the judgments in favor of the New York Central Railroad Company which were rendered in two actions brought by Carmine De Cicco, as administrator of her two children, Rosina and Emma De Cicco, deceased, against the railroad company. The actions grew out of the following facts:

On November 12, 1917, at about 4:10 p. m., an automobile operated by Theresa De Cicco, aged 13 years and nine months, was stalled on the Flatbush avenue crossing of the West Shore railroad after it had come in collision with the crossing gate, operated by the railroad, and broken off one of the gates. Before any train was in sight, Frank De Cicco, a brother, not quite 21 years of age, endeavored to push the car off of the tracks and was to some extent aided by Theresa, the driver. In the automobile as passengers were Rosina De Cicco, aged 11 years, Emma De Cicco, aged eight years, and Jimmie and Joe Nerone, aged about seven and nine years respectively. While they were endeavoring to push the car off, the two Nerone children got out of the car and escaped injury. The two De Cicco girls, Rosina and Emma, remained in the car, which was struck by a locomotive attached to a regular passenger train due at Kingston from the north at about 4 p. m. They were both killed and actions were brought by their father, Carmine De Cicco, as administrator, to recover for their death.

The actions were tried at a trial term held in Ulster county before Justice Rosch and a jury, and the jury found a verdict in favor of the defendant railroad company in each action dismissing the complaint. From such judgments an appeal was taken to the appellate division by De Cicco, in which court the judgments were affirmed, Justice Harbrouck, who was then sitting on the appellate division, dissenting. From that court an appeal was taken to the court of appeals where it was argued February 25, 1926, which court rendered their decision affirming the judgments in favor of the railroad company, as above stated.

Van Ethen & Cook were the attorneys for the plaintiff, De Cicco, and Amos Van Ethen attorney for the defendant, New York Central Railroad Company.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 31.—The stock market showed the first signs of genuine recovery today in nearly two weeks. A fair degree of recovery was made in the bulk of speculative shares.

Shortly after the noon period the bears launched a heavy attack on the equipment stocks, in the course of which Baldwin Locomotive dropped to 94 1/2 and smaller losses were sustained by American Car & Foundry, American Locomotive, Railway Steel Springs, General Railway Signal and Pullman.

Analyses of the motor companies showed that for most of them the March selling record would surpass the early estimates.

Commodity markets were irregular.

MRS. THORNE ADMITS POSSIBLE REUNION.

New York, March 31.—Mrs. Helen Mitchell Haysmer Thorne, heiress to the Haysmer sugar millions, and bride of Henry Sanford Thorne, admitted today a possible reconciliation with her husband was under way but denied emphatically that their recent difficulties were based on Thorne's litigation with his first wife, Mrs. Belle Bacon Thorne.

"I have no interest in the first Mrs. Thorne's litigation and it had nothing to do with our difficulties," the second Mrs. Thorne declared. "I have known the former Mrs. Thorne for some time and have the greatest respect for her."

Mrs. Thorne is a guest at the home of her parents, at Ardler-on-the-Hudson.

Bulls and Bears Again at Grips

New York, March 31.—Bulls and bears went to grips again today in another active market on the stock exchange.

Bulls made a valiant attempt to stop the selling wave that has swept the market for the last ten days, sending prices downward. As a result, railroad and specialty stocks, which crashed hardest yesterday, started with advances of two or three points.

But the bears came back vigorously, and shortly after noon started a spectacular drive against equipment stocks. Heavy liquidation also appeared in railroad stocks and, again, the price movement was downward.

Trading was heavy, threatening to once more reach the 3,000,000-shares mark for the day.

It had been reported in the financial district that powerful banking interests connected with the important industrial companies would supply a good volume of buying orders, to prevent the downward movement of prices from developing into a panic.

Many of the larger pools and professionals were said to be in hard straits.

The banks called a smaller amount of money from the call loan market, but the 5 per cent call loan rate reflected the preparations for heavy payments in the banks tomorrow.

Early School for Blind

The first school for the blind in America was the Perkins Institution and Massachusetts Asylum for the Blind, founded at Boston in 1822, through the influence and energetic efforts of Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, husband of Julia Ward Howe, and the motherhood of Cel. Thomas H. Parker, who was born 169 years ago. His name has been perpetuated by the institution he founded for the benefit of the sightless.

Man Like a Bicycle

Congratulated by a London Evening News man on reaching his 90th birthday, Lord Pembroke said: "I am not of long life, health and happiness by any means, plenty of fresh air and domestic happiness. 'An' long as a bicycle keeps running,' he said, 'I stay bright. It is the same in human life. To live long one must keep active. Idleness is fatal.'"

Mannish Tailors on Spring Fashion Card

The mannish tailor for spring is with us again, except that it is more mannish than ever. Severe simplicity is the keynote of the new suits, many of which introduce vests. Here is shown a very chic tailored costume of tan tweed which boasts a regular vest, a strictly tailored coat and a tight-fitting skirt. The hat is of tan velours.

Originality Marks Many Capes and Cape Coats

Enterprise and originality are shown by some designers of capes and cape coats in the latest models, and many strange materials are employed. In a coat model of fine flexible blue leather a cape is added with the facility with which one would handle crepe de chine. It is lined with a smart check of blue and white. An ensemble in heavy crepe, which seems to combine frock and wrap, is designed from a coat, with tailored sleeves and cape. Small buttons fasten the coat itself straight down the front to the hips, where a skirt of the material in narrow plaits is attached.

On a severely plain kasha frock, relieved only by an inverted plait and embroidered pocket at one side, a circular cape fits across the back and shoulders. It is sewn to a narrow scarf which is tied around the throat with long narrow ends hanging down the front. A bit of needlework is done on the cuff bands and scarf ends.

Short Skirts Indorsed; Waistline Grows Higher

Short skirts continue to be indorsed, but the upward tendency of the waistline is not exaggerated. Longon believes that it should be adapted to each individual wearer. There are, however, some bloused back movements, with a higher waistline indicated at the front.

Sleeves in the models for spring are straight and simple, while the godet is entirely eliminated. It is replaced by plaits, gathers and various interesting cuts, which lend fullness to the skirts.

Taffeta continues to be sponsored among the fabrics, but there is a generous use of chiffon and georgette, both plain and printed. Angora Jersey appears in sports costumes, accompanied by plaided skirts.

The jumper theme is quite neglected by Lelong in the collection which includes a group of strictly tailored suits, with waistcoats, developed, for the most part, in black or navy blue.

Rose Matignon, a marvelous shade of pink, is featured for spring, with a very light green also accorded high favor.

Hats and Bags Same Color and Material

One of the new styles for spring is the combination of hats and bags of the same color and material. These ensembles will be carried out in suede leather in all colors. The hats will be snug fitting, trimmed with leather or corded, bows and quills, while the bags will be of the pouch shape.

We may even have footwear to match the hat and bag ensemble, for a two-toned leather embodying all the new shades is being used for spring shoes.

Must Be Seasonable

The single flower or bouquet which decorates the coat or wrap has a decided tendency to follow the floral season. The field flowers that bloom on the spring coast are inappropriate for the far east. The colorful appeal of the shaggy fall flower is unsuited to the formal evening mode, and the delicate tint of the orchid or carnation is appropriately used after dark.

Straw Cr.-beted for Hats

Novelty straw, in pastel colors that give the effect of being crusted are used for the smartest hats for early spring.

DELAYED DORMANT SPRAY ESSENTIAL

It is time for fruit growers to prepare for the first spray of the season, the delayed dormant spray. This is one treatment that should be given every orchard every year. It primarily, is a control for scale insects, but aphids or plant lice are also controlled when the spray is made at the right time.

"The delayed dormant spray was formerly made any time during the winter," says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at the North Carolina state college. "Growers now are advised to apply it just before the buds swell in the spring. It is more effective if used in this way. Apple trees may be sprayed a little later to control the plant lice, which will be at the time when green can be seen in the blossom buds. With peach trees, however, the delayed dormant spray should be given before the buds swell to control leaf curl as well as insect pests."

Mr. Brannon states that oil sprays are coming into use now and are effective in controlling scale and pleasant to apply. These oil sprays can be prepared by the grower at home, but if he has only a few trees it will be best to use the prepared sprays. In no case should worthless sprays or spray materials be bought. There are many excellent products on the market, says Mr. Brannon, and growers should obtain authoritative information before buying their materials for the season.

Where there is leaf curl in the orchard, growers should use either the lime-sulphur or lime-sulphur mixed with oil for the delayed dormant spray, advises Mr. Brannon. Oils have no disease-controlling value. Concentrated lime-sulphur will give good results as the delayed dormant spray and is both an insecticide and a fungicide.

Directions for Killing Trees by Using Arsenic

The following directions for killing trees with arsenic are taken from the Australia Forestry Journal:

Formula.
Arsenic, one pound.
Washing soda, one pound.
Whiting, one pound.
Water, four-gallons.

Dissolve the soda in a small amount of water. Mix the arsenic with a little water to form a paste and add to the soda, stirring continuously. Boil the mixture for at least half an hour, avoiding inhaling the fumes which, being poisonous, sometimes cause sickness. Mix the whiting with the rest of the water and add after removing from the fire.

The best results are obtained by applying the arsenic in the winter, although trees may be killed at any season of the year.

Make a series of overlapping ax cuts completely around the tree, through the bark and well into the tissue. Leave the chips on to form a "frill." Pour from one-half pint to a quart or more of the arsenic mixture into the cuts, saturating thoroughly. An old teapot is convenient to use in applying the poison. Small trees may be cut off low down, and the cut swabbed with poison. This effectively prevents suckering.

This poison has a salty taste and stock should be kept away until the rains have washed it all off the trees.

Transplant Blackberries

It will be quite practical to transplant the blackberry plants that have sprung from suckers. Some folks contend that these plants will tend to sucker more than others but there is no evidence to support the theory. On the other hand this is the customary way of starting plantations in sections where blackberries are grown extensively. Blackberries are not overly hardy. It is therefore preferable to set them in the spring, although if they are mulched they may be set in the fall with safety.

Horticultural Notes

Mature grapevines should be pruned back to about forty buds.

Why market ungraded, mixed fruit when quality apples bring at least one dollar more per box?

Illinois peach growers report that their trees are full of buds, and all they want now is mild weather.

A few fruit tree diseases require a strong spray, best applied when the trees are dormant during the winter. It will soon be too late to use this spray method.

Watch for mice in the orchard. They can do a lot of damage by gnawing, and they should be poisoned to save the trees.

Liquid spray did a better job of protecting apple trees from the codling moth than dust did this past season, growers report.

Many mature fruit trees are carrying the much feared blight. The best way to remove it is to cut it out with a sharp knife, and then to burn the branches off.

Forest and Mill Scene at Warren's

Type of Mill Card 100 Years Ago Set Amid Woodland Surroundings Makes Realistic Picture in Fair Street Store.

In the window of the C. A. Warren sporting goods store on Fair street is one of the most elaborate displays which has ever been seen in town. The woods and mill scene originated in the mind of Mr. Warren in 1915 when the building was erected by him and at that time the plumbing and mechanical parts were installed in the show window and have now been put to use. During the past ten years the display now exhibited has been in the process of completion.

Paul Miller of Roxmoor assisted in the work with the cooperation of Mr. Keppeler of Woodland Valley, who designed the mill which is used in the display. The proportions of the mill are accurately laid out by Mr. Keppeler, and are of the type of mill in use 100 years ago. The mill building as well as the fisherman who stands on the bank of the stream and the two camping scenes which are very intricate are of wood carefully worked out and made by Mr. Miller. The water wheel of the mill is not propelled mechanically as many believe but is run by the water which flows over it and through the mossy brook to the mill pond.

The scene surrounding the mill is a wooded hill covered with hemlock trees under which the two camping parties are located. On the lower parts of the scene near the stream is a mossy lowland very realistic in design. A road over which miniature automobiles are traveling and a bridge across the stream assist in the picture. In the mill pond are several fish swimming about. The scene attracts great crowds of people.

GOVERNOR TO HEAR WHITEMORE CASE.

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—Governor Al Smith is expected to give a hearing the latter part of this week on an application to extradite Richard Reese Whittemore, bandit leader under a $10,000 bond, to Maryland charge.

It was said at the executive chamber today the hearing probably would be held as soon as the governor, who has been confined to the executive mansion for several days with cold and sore throat, was able to return to the capitol.

District Attorney Guy D. Moore of Erie county, may oppose the extradition application on the ground that Whittemore is wanted in Buffalo to face a charge of slaying two Buffalo bank employees.

Moore conferred today with Owen L. Potter, pardon clerk in the governor's office, regarding the extradition hearing. Shortly after noon George B. Graves, secretary to the governor, went to the executive mansion to find out if the governor was able to confer with Moore later in the day regarding the Whittemore case.

Tunney-Wills Match for Title

Farley Threatens To Make Play For Public Sympathy By Matching Tunney and Wills in Champion Bout.

By Davis J. Walsh.
New York, March 31.—Jack Dempsey has been given only six weeks to "live."

This was the good word, passed along today for what it might be worth, following yesterday's public threat by James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, to drop the gullotine upon the champion's professional head for his chronic neglect of Harry Wills's challenge in this state. In discussing the situation with friends, Farley is said to have named May 15 as a suitable date for the "execution."

The condemned man, of course, will eat a hearty meal. Meanwhile, the possibility exists that the "death" may be greatly exaggerated, a la Mark Twain, but in boxing circles today there was a well-defined belief that the local commission may be able to make the edict stick because Dempsey's popularity has become like the smile on a leafield's face. It just simply isn't.

Farley, in brief, will make a play for public sympathy, it being once his hope and belief that the dear, old populace, wearied by Dempsey's non-activity, will accept the winner of a Tunney-Wills match as the champion.

In no other way, he admitted, can the action of the local commission be made to appear in a serious light. Its ruling will become operative, automatically, in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, but otherwise it will lack official recognition.

"It will be up to the public to take it or leave it," Farley said. "I am banking on the more as one directed toward the betterment of boxing. Dempsey is not fighting. Many believe he never will fight again. Certainly, if he goes through the coming summer without defending his title, there can be no doubt that he has retired for good."

"That isn't the kind of a champion the fans want. They want their fighters to fight."

"Gene Tunney once told us that the only condition under which he would meet Wills would be with the title at stake. Wills probably feels the same way about Tunney. I think we would be making a move of great national popularity in matching this pair for the title, if Dempsey continues to ignore his obligations."

Farley admitted that, if at some later date, Dempsey decided to return to the ring, the public probably would regard him as the real champion in a meeting with either Wills or Tunney.

Genewich Will Start.
St. Petersburg, Fla., March 31.—Joe Genewich, unless something happens to his arm, will pitch the season's opening game for the Braves.

Manager Bancroft and Coach Dick Rudolph have their plans so far completed as to have decided that way. Joe has been showing great ability since this spring.

Elks' Bouts for Hospital Fund

Wednesday evening, April 14, at the New York State armory there will be staged boxing exhibitions followed by an entertainment that should be one of the biggest sporting events witnessed in this city in some time. The show is being conducted by Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. E., and the proceeds will be turned over to the fund for rebuilding the Kingston City Hospital.

Fighters with good records will be matched, the main attractions being boxers who fight in and around New York city. There will be a local boxer, Charley Fisher seen in action pitted against a strong opponent. Fisher has fought several times and his appearance at this big show will be welcomed by many boxing enthusiasts.

Bill Todd, local matchmaker, announced this morning that he has signed Billy Marlow, Nick Mercer and Nick Laperuta. These men come to Kingston with good reputations from the authorities of the National Guard. The boxers appearing at this show will be members of guard companies throughout the state.

The committees in charge are working very zealously for the success of this show and in a few days will announce both the principals in the bout and the entertainment. The dual purpose—seeing a clean cut exhibition of the art of boxing and contributing indirectly to a worthy fund, is expected to bring out a record crowd. Recently the local Elks have staged bouts for members at their club rooms and have established themselves as very good entertainers. The entertainment on April 14 at the New York State armory is expected to eclipse all former successes and the public is invited to enjoy it.

K. H. S. Nine in First Workout

The Maroon and 'White baseball squad enjoyed its first official spring practice Monday afternoon at the conclusion of school with the rear of the high school the scene of activities. Captain Sabloff and Manager Spiegel had sounded their call for candidates the week before and about thirty-five prospects responded, consisting mostly of rookies. It is expected that before the week is out that the total will increase to sixty or more. Coach O'Leary will have his squad working out all this week.

The real intensive practice will not start until after the Easter vacation. The Maroon and White will again play all games on the Athletic Field this season.

There are but five varsity men of last year making bids for this year's squad. All others having received their "K" have left school or are ineligible to tryout for the nine. The varsity men left are: Captain Sabloff, Fritz Bruhn, Lou Bruhn, Ray Quackenbush and Ralph Miller. All are most accustomed to the infield with the exception of Lou Bruhn, who plays in the outer canvas and Quackenbush, who is a first baseman. Schultz, who was guardian of the initial sack last season, is not out this year.

For the twirling post Coach O'Leary has three likely prospects, Paul Joyce, Bert Davis and a newcomer to K. H. S., Webster Jones. On the receiving end of the battery, Blacker and Philip Jones are working hard for this position. The entire squad as a whole looks rather promising and captain, manager and coach are in hopes of doing something real in the baseball line this season.

New York, March 31.—Willie Hoppe today entered another lap of his match with Jake Schaefer in defense of his 18:1 balk line billiard title trailing by a score of 1,200 to 982, Schaefer having obtained a long lead by winning last night's block, 385 to 82. In the afternoon, Hoppe had resumed the lead by scoring 356 points while Schaefer was getting 215 but his slump in the evening more than reversed matters.

Hoppe gave a perfect exhibition in the afternoon when he scored 201 points in the first two innings. The match is at 3,600 points and will continue throughout the week.

JOHNSON ARRESTED FOR STAGING BOUT.

Chicago, March 31.—Jack Johnson, former world's heavyweight pugilistic champion, and five others arrested with him were to be arraigned today in police court on charges of violating the Illinois Law prohibiting prize fighting.

Johnson, two boxers, two seconds and a timekeeper were arrested last night in a raid on Jack's new gymnasium during an "exhibition bout." The former champion a few days ago sought an injunction against police interference with his boxing shows, but, he said, was told he was within the law and an injunction was not necessary.
